

Client Privacy Policy

The Humanitarian Service Project (HSP) is very concerned about protecting the identity and circumstances of our clients. HSP does not release the full name or address of any of our clients for public usage. We may use first names, only, in information released for developing support or grants for our programs along with other personal information collected from surveys and interviews.

Release:

I grant the right for the Humanitarian Service Project to use the information from this Application/Interview/Survey along with my first name, but not my full name or address, for all uses related to the Humanitarian Service Project's mission and waive the right to inspect or approve any such use.
